KeFax Ltd

About Us

KeFax was set up in 1994 with the aim of providing a skills management service to the electricity supply industry that encompasses all of their values of experience, affordability and quality. With highly skilled directors, managers and technical training professionals, KeFax are able to offer a tailored service for each customer's individual needs. As well as providing a technical consultancy service, KeFax offer training and development in the form of City & Guilds qualifications, technical short courses and competency assessments.

The range of topics KeFax covers includes transmission and distribution substation and overhead line maintenance, refurbishment and commissioning. KeFax's training professionals are experienced engineers who have spent many years working for network owners and can offer a vast amount of accumulated knowledge and expertise across all ESI disciplines.
